Chair's Report

2013 brought a fresh image to RDA Barossa in a move to new premises, the former Tanunda Institute. Built in 1877 as a meeting place for the community it is a fitting location for RDA Barossa and its role of connecting opportunity, capacity and resources. I thank the building owners for making the premises available to us.

Another change for RDA Barossa this year has been the introduction of Board workshops in alternate months to Board Meetings. This was an initiative of board members who felt they would like to have the opportunity to explore in depth some of the critical issues and opportunities facing the region. Water Resources and Regional Priorities were the subject of two of the workshops during the 2012 – 2013 year. Looking forward Horticulture will be in the next year's programme.

With a strong focus on local issues in a global context, the need and demand for support and services by RDA staff has been enormous. With the incredible pace of change in business and trade, the impact of external factors on business and industry is requiring a response that many are unable to address or action alone. Accordingly, RDA Barossa has embraced the interest in clusters and clustering of business for mutual support and advantage. Strategic approaches to clustering will also identify smart specialisations within the region as a call to global markets and to attract further expertise and investment. We have hosted a number of global experts to work with industry sectors – in particular disability & aged care and food wine tourism.

Infrastructure is ever the driver of investment and growth and important infrastructure projects in the past year include water reuse systems. The Greater Gawler Stormwater project, a partnership between the four councils in the region, received $10.7 million from the Australian Government towards the $20 million first stage of the scheme. RDA has worked with Councils and the Wakefield Group on the model and partnerships for delivery of the scheme.

The Northern Adelaide Irrigation Scheme is a cornerstone project still seeking support funding. It will open up the most exciting new opportunity for the region in facilitating growth and expansion of the Northern Adelaide Plains food bowl into the District Council of Mallala adjacent to Two Wells. This growth is a priority project for RDA Barossa.

I would like to congratulate the region's wine industry and industry peak body Barossa Grape & Wine on the enormous steps it has taken in global recognition culminating in publication of research identifying the Barossa as the world's fifth most recognised wine region for wine drinkers. All industry, if it is smart, can benefit from this recognition. Food and Tourism have also been active, culminating in the current innovative South Australian Tourism Commission campaign for the Barossa. This is an opportunity to be leveraged now and in the coming years.

Thank you to the Members of the Board for their commitment and hard work in the cause. By its nature in assisting others to success and driving the “invisibles” of infrastructure and opportunity, much of the work of RDA Barossa is under the radar when accolades are handed out.

None of the successful achievements from the past year would have been achieved without the diligent and untiring efforts of CEO Anne Moroney and her supporting staff who spend many out of hours’ time consulting and supporting community organisations across the region.

This passion for the region and integrity of purpose has kept the engine room burning.

Reserve Bank visits Tanunda

LAST week the Reserve Bank of Australia visited the Barossa Valley and held a briefing in Tanunda about the economic outlook. The meeting was held in conjunction with Regional Development Australia - Barossa, (RDA).

This was the eighth time the Reserve Bank has been to the Barossa Valley to present their perspectives and engage participants in discussions around the local and global outlook.

David Norman, economist and senior Reserve Bank of Australia representative convening the event said, "The Reserve Bank of Australia is responsible for setting monetary policy to ensure that inflation is low and stable and to support the Australian economy."

"While the Bank looks at thousands of statistics every month, it also understands the importance of talking to business and the community in the region."

Millions injected into regional development

THE United Government's cultural change in regional funding by focusing on priorities of persistence and projects that stack-up, partnership and innovation, and regional development Australia Fund (RDAP).

Announcing new guidelines and funding rounds, Regional Development Australia Minister Simon Crean said the Federal Government had injected RDAP in response to community feedback.

"Round three will see $50 million dedicated specifically to projects in small towns, while round four will distribute $175 million to support strategic infrastructure projects," Mr Crean said.

"Both rounds will be rolled out at the same time as $225 million is available for job partnership projects right across Australia."

"RDAP will continue to do a cultural change in regional funding by focusing on priorities of persistence and projects that stack-up, partnership and innovation, and regional development Australia Fund (RDAP)."

CEO Report

Change is the big challenge that must be approached as the big opportunity. Creative thinking and responsive action is an advantage. Ideas, collaborative innovation, can all be generated by creating the right conditions. Creating the right conditions for investment and innovation is the ultimate goal of RDA Barossa activity.

We have plans, goals and targets, but must remain flexible enough in our delivery to seize opportunity as it arises. We must cultivate perspectives that identify opportunity and the energy to encourage industry and community to action it. We have a great team and I particularly acknowledge and thank valued team members Barbara Lightburn and Ashleigh Fox who have moved onto new and equally exciting opportunities.

Steve Jobs said "creativity is just connecting things" and RDA Barossa is structured to connect ideas, opportunity, people and resources for the future. We partner with some great local clusters in food, wine and tourism and township and service club groups of enormous energy.

Regional Development operates on a number of levels. We identify, support or advocate for major infrastructure. We manage projects that deliver fundamental change or new directions. We undertake organizing activities that assist willing locals get out of the blocks with grass roots and visionary projects. From time to time we bring new ideas and transformative thinking into the region. We assist people to find work and business to build the confidence to create jobs.

Our best work for the past year reflects a combination of these things.

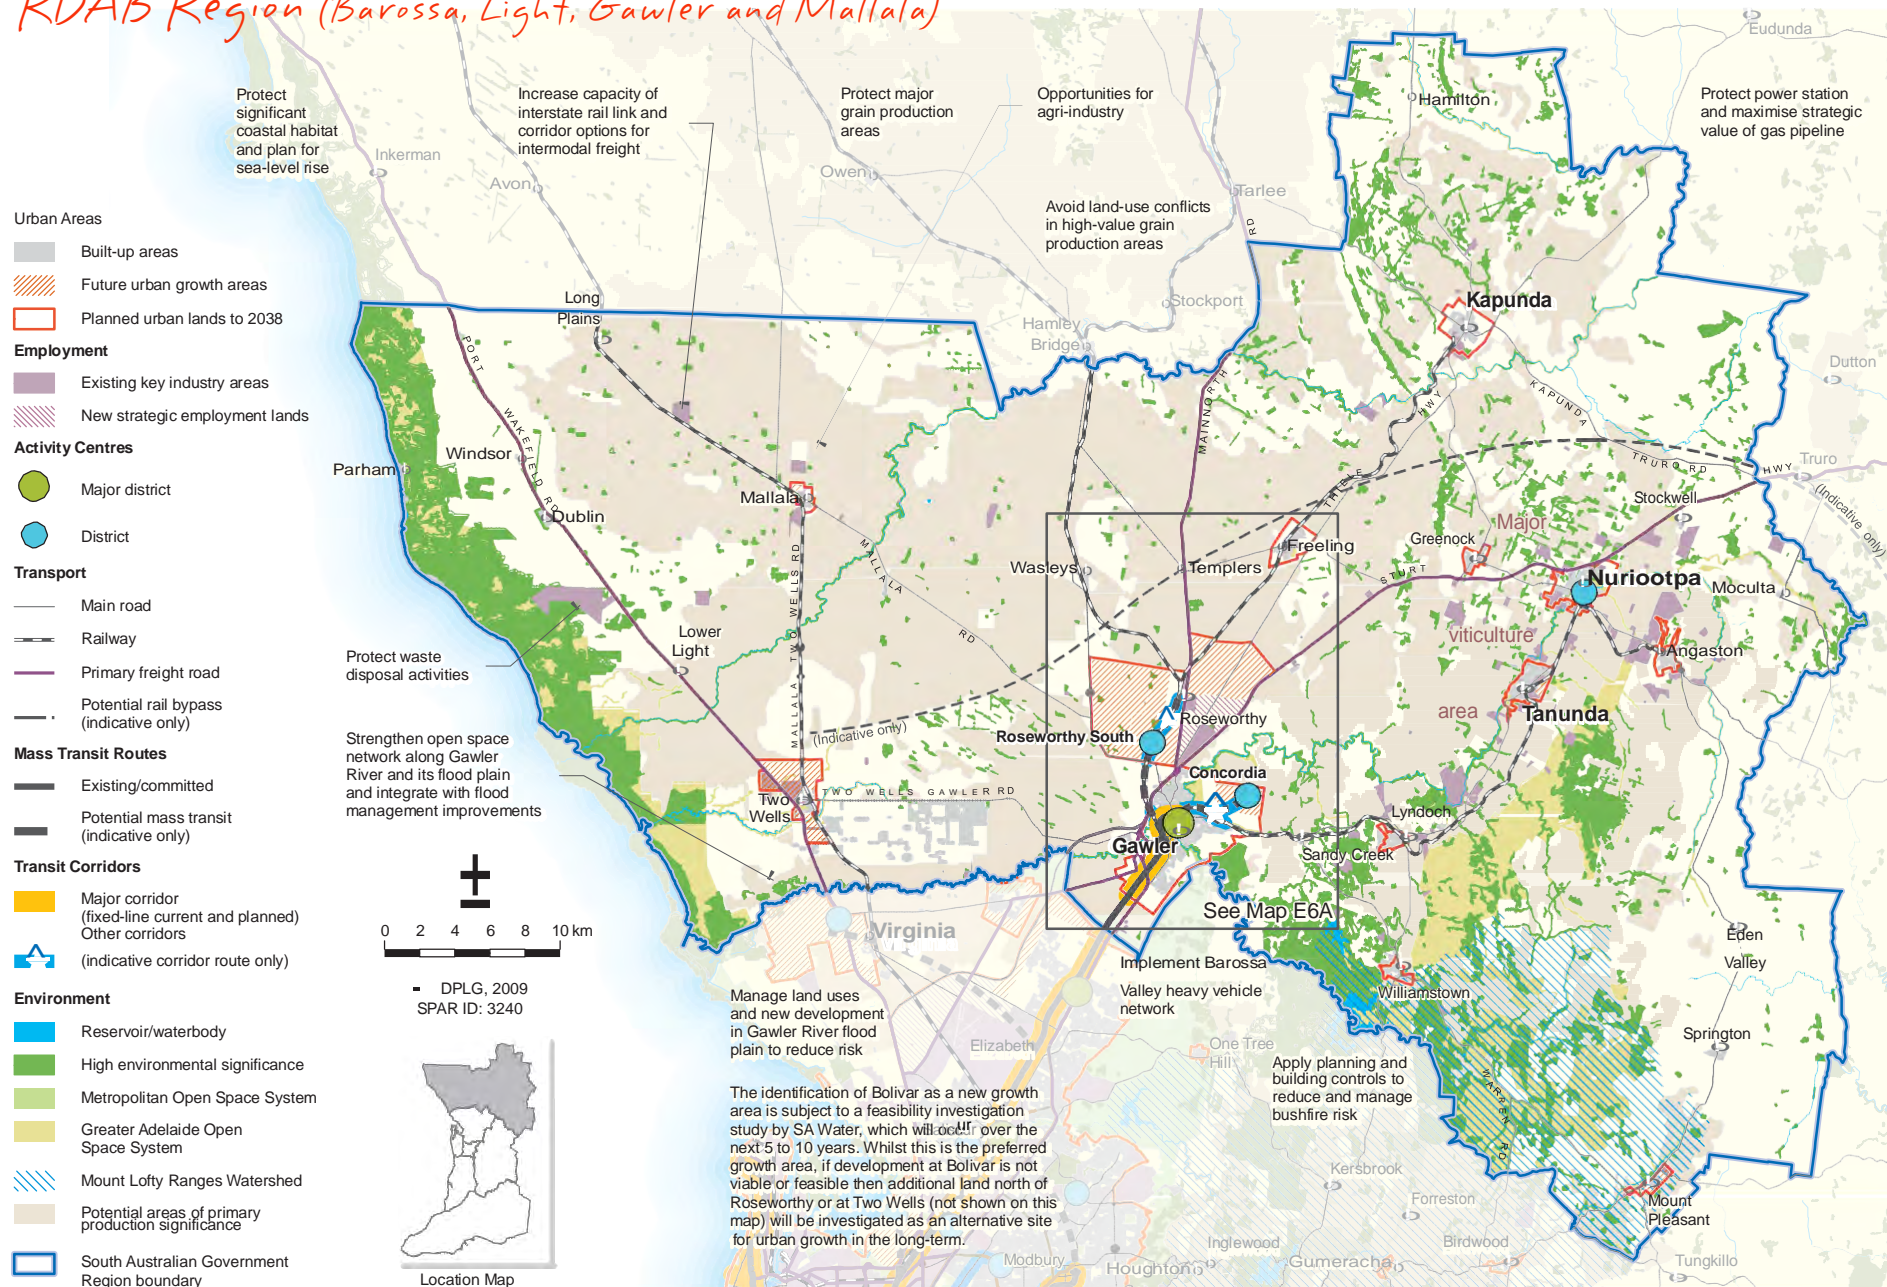

This annual report gives a snapshot of projects which I think are illustrative of our impact and the outcomes that regional development generates. The snapshot is intended to give an insight into the meaning behind the contractual reporting in the second part of the report. I hope it gives the reader an insight into the lives changed and opportunity attracted through this collaboration of government and community.

Anne Moroney
Chief Executive Officer

RDAB Region (Barossa, Light, Gawler and Mallee)

What is RDA Barossa?

Regional Development Australia Barossa (RDAB) is a partnership between the Australian Government, South Australian Government and local government (Town of Gawler, District Council of Mallala, The Barossa Council and Light Regional Council) to develop and strengthen the Barossa regional community. It has a pivotal role in ensuring the long-term sustainability of the region, working with all sectors of the community, including people from a variety of demographics and cultural backgrounds.

RDAB recognises that the economic, social, cultural and environmental issues affecting communities are interdependent in contributing to Economic Growth. Accordingly RDA Barossa works towards:

- Regional business growth and economic development: the creation of new jobs, skills development and business and infrastructure investment;
- Environmental resilience, sustainability and the management of our resource base (including the impact of drought and climate change);
- Cultural underpinnings of our community, creativity and intergenerational leadership; and
- Social inclusion strategies, which will connect and support all members of the community.

RDA Foundation documents note:

RDA, in consultation with the community, business, non profit organisations and all levels of government, will articulate local priorities, identify and align resources, engage stakeholders and promote solutions. In doing this, RDAB will support the growth and development of regional communities.

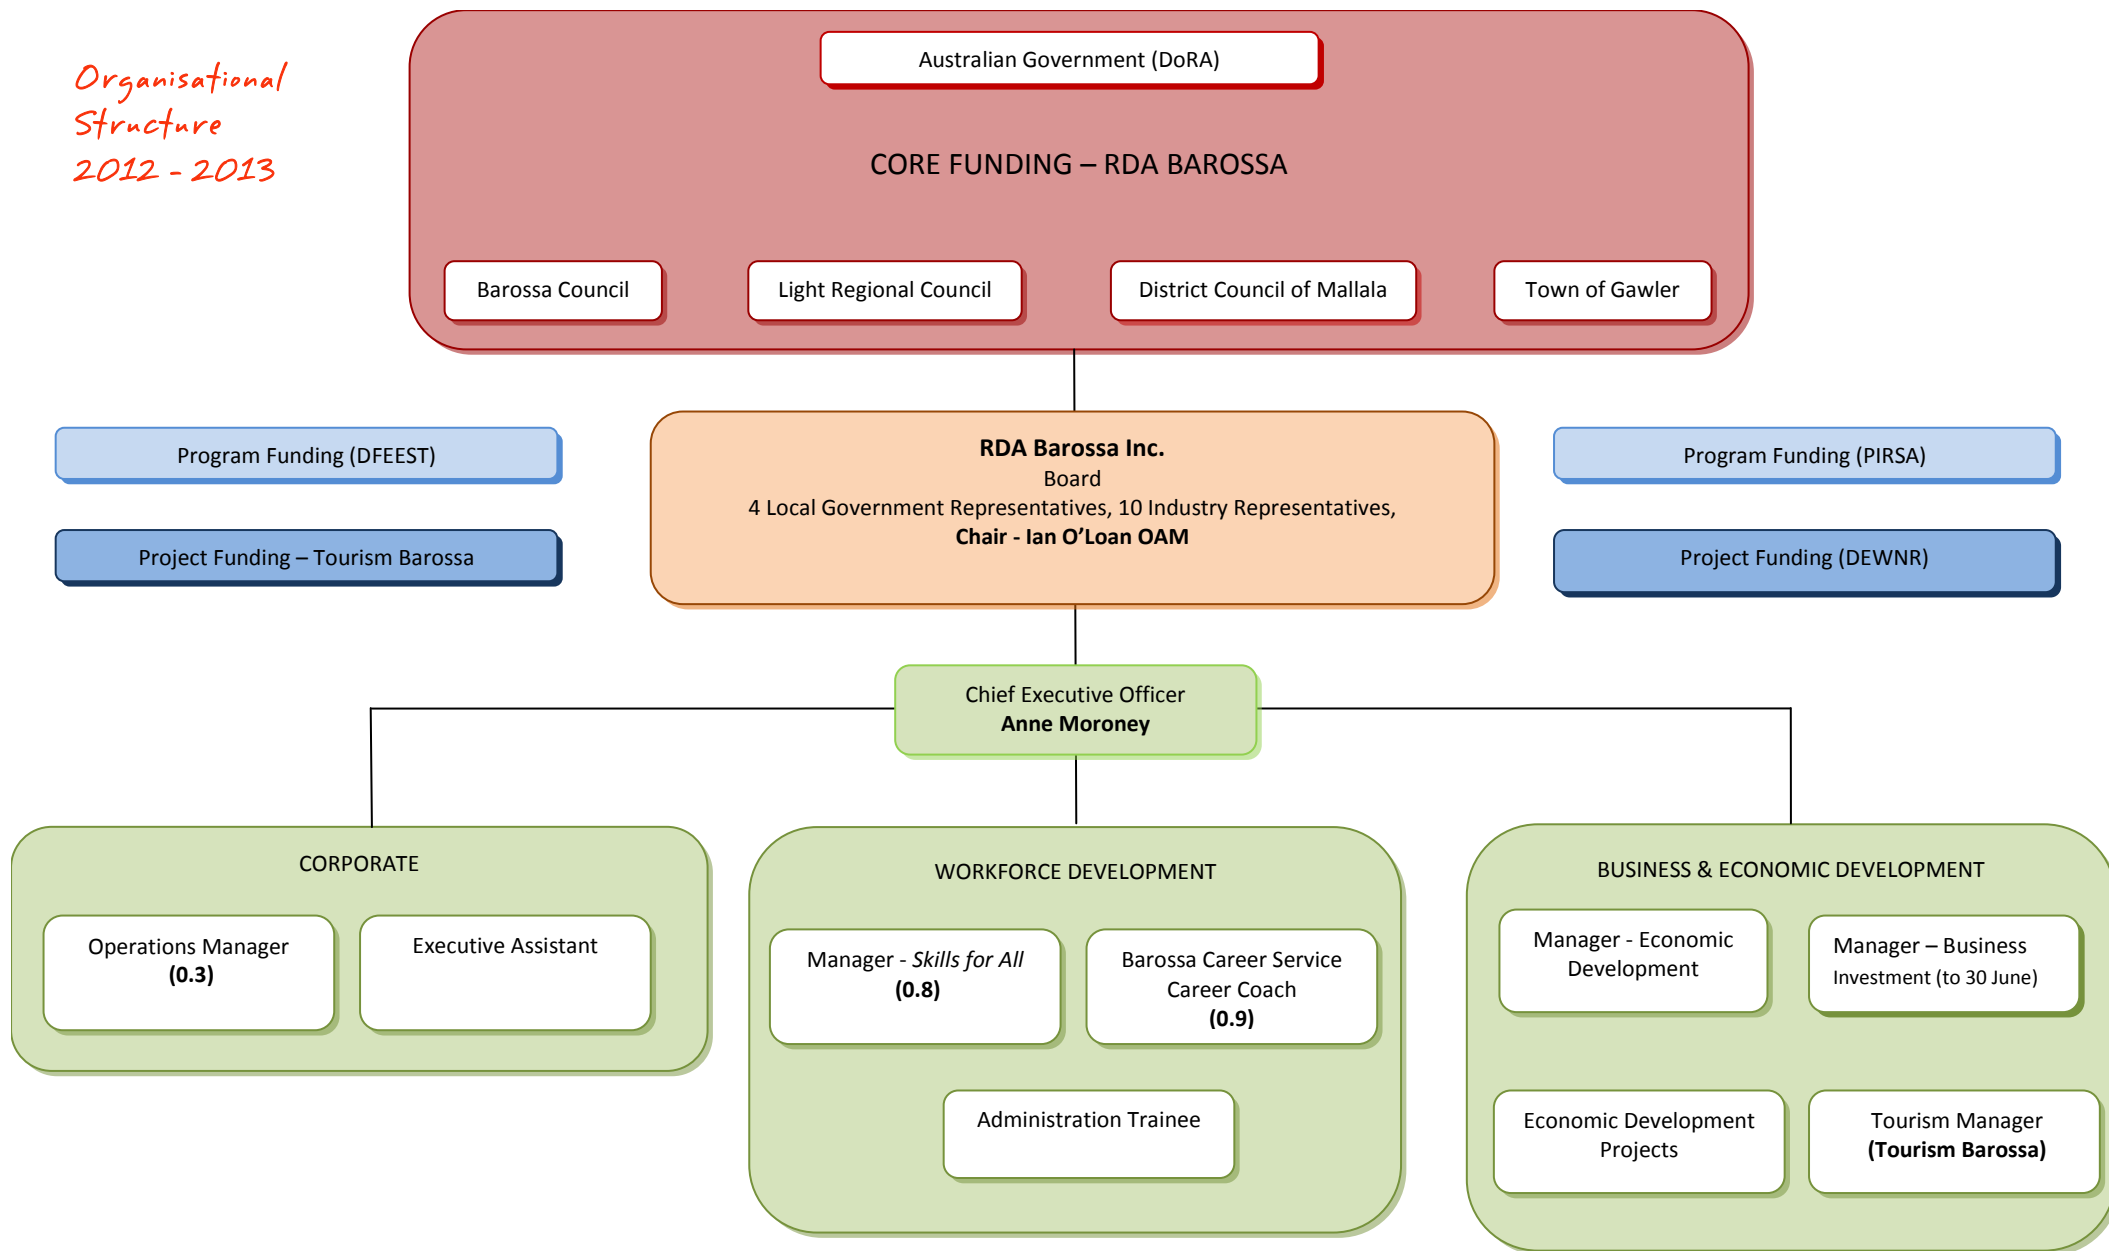

RDA will support, promote and disseminate information on government policy initiatives for the benefit of local communities. To this end, the RDAB will have a strong understanding of federal, state and local government policies and initiatives, and the ways in which local communities can engage with them and taken on a role in bringing together organisations to take advantage of government programs, policies and initiatives.

RDA will be an effective conduit between governments and the regional community. It will enable all communities to provide input to governments about the strengths and weaknesses of regional Australia.

RDA proscribed Outcomes:

- Community & Economic Development
- Community Engagement and Consultation
- Improved Regional Planning
- Joined up, whole of government action
- Access to Government Programmes

Meagan Stapleton (commenced March 2013)

Administration Trainee

Meagan is undergoing a traineeship with RDA Barossa whereby upon completion she will receive a Certificate IV in Business Administration. This will build on her knowledge and experience from the Certificate III in Business she received in 2012 and prepare her for her desired future in Administration. Meagan has recently moved to the Barossa from her hometown Swan Reach. She enjoys the country side and hopes to find herself a career here once she has finished her traineeship with us. Meagan spends her weekends playing netball for her home town.

Dr Elena Rudnik

Elena undertook a short term contract for Career assistance during the year. Elena is a researcher with the University of South Australia and contributed to closer links with UniSA and tertiary institutions.
