Employment Opportunities

Christian View

The pain of love

I remember the dreadful day when my youngest son called me on the phone. He was totally distraught.

Through his sobbing and distress he broke the awful news to me.

He and his wife were expecting their first child. In an earlier pregnancy they had been expecting twins.

They had been through the pain of losing one, then the other.

This time was different. Everything was going just fine. Mother and baby were doing well.

The night before we were joking about the coming trip to hospital. The next morning we awaited the wonderful announcement.

The phone rang. At first I thought my son was crying for joy.

But then I knew from the tone of his cries that he was in distress.

Before he could say anything I understood. I was immediately overcome and sobbed with him. "Dad," he said, "the baby was stillborn!" I can still hear how distraught he was.

There are so many tragedies in life that fill us with so many questions; questions that only God can answer.

Most of those answers are waiting for us in Heaven.

Jesus said to His disciples, "There is so much more I want to tell you, but you cannot bear it now."

God has His purposes and goals for us and we must trust Him and wait.

If we have any doubts about His love we must look at the cross of Jesus.

God has loved us beyond all we can imagine.

As the Bible says, "He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not freely give us all things."

"Rely on the knowledge that God loves you. He is sovereign, and His sovereign purposes will work all things together for good."

"In the meantime, God suffers with us, because of His love for us. As the Bible says, "in all your afflictions He is afflicted." Why? Because His love is so great, He did not spare His own Son for us.

LATE SPORT STORIES

Kapunda Golf

There is a lot of comment about the magnificent Kapunda Golf course and dedicated band of volunteers but when you hear nothing but positive comments out in the wider community you can't help but feel proud of being a part of it.

Special mention of Bob and Jenny Lambert who, it seems, have made the golf club their second home.

Whether it be mid week or the weekend, Bob is only too willing to accommodate any individual or group of players who are after a game.

It is great to see past members and players coming back to revisit Kidman Links to find the course in perfect condition.

Now to the golf!

It was a frosty start for all early morning starters throughout the week and the girls kicked it off on Wednesday for the second round of the International Bowl.

Past skipper, Gloria Potter led A graders for the second week running with a very good nett 70.

Glenys Pierce was a couple back, followed by Kathy Stubing with a nett 76.

Jane Teagle continued her pretty consistent form to lead the B graders with a steady 72.

Veteran and club stalwart Helen Sexton had 79 and Marie Vater was third in the grade on 80.

Perfect weather again prevailed on the following day and a field of almost 40 made the most of it in a rare stroke round.

Paul Glenn was back at the top of the field with a well carded nett 70.

Trevor Bateman was just one shot behind.

The pair of Barry Partridge and Brett Burgess were a further shot back and they were followed on 73 by Ray Thorning and Terry Harris.

The Thursday comp has come along in leaps and bounds over recent years and Brian Lees has done a fantastic job in getting and keeping the lads organised.

Saturday's registrations topped 90 for the first time in a month and the prospect of becoming a monthly medal winner in the comp was surely an incentive.

There were a few good scores at the top of the leaderboard but there were also some surprising names at the other end of the field as well.

Given the glorious conditions, there really was no excuse for poor golf.

Out of bounds and watery graves were just a few of the unfavourable spots some of the players found themselves in across the day.

Greg Jones popped up out of the wilderness to claim the July pot in a three way countback in a very welcome return to form with his nett 71.

The unlucky players in the countback were Tim Scheer and Vicki Wilson who had to settle for grade wins in the A's and C grade respectively.

Tim had a four shot lead over both Mick Watson and Marty Hayward in the top grade.

Dave Waters and Wayne Skinner also were involved in a countback for B grade voucher and on this occasion it was Dave who came out in front.

Steven Watson was one of three players who were just a shot back from the leading pair.

Franky Schulz and Wayne Harvey were the others in the trio.

In C grade Vicki had the slenderest of leads over both Jimmy Menzel and Johnny Conaghty.

Susan Siviour evened up the gender balance at the top of the grade with a very nice nett 73.

This week the ladies play the third round of the International Bowl before tackling their Championship rounds while the Thursday field will be back to a stableford round.

On Saturday all will also be playing a stableford round and Maxy Wilson will provide the prize on the day.

Should be another week of pretty good conditions and would expect to see improved scores from some of the players out of touch.

Lucky we don't rely on good scores for our income! Teed Up.
